Church Vocations Scholarship Report
January 2012

I feel that I am growing in my faith in different ways. Being at Alverno, really helps me in that as well. It is like a family there, and everyone is there to help you, and they are willing to help. The teachers are there to listen and to help. The students are willing to help and be there as well. In my anatomy class I got a lot of help from the other students, and from the teachers. When there is group work everyone works together and everyone does a part, we all ask questions and we all help each other. It is not only school work that people are helping with, we talk about our personal lives and everyone is willing to listen. If someone is having a bad day, people are there to help and talk to you. It's a very good place to find people that are willing to help. People are willing to listen and accept other people's ideas. Having all of the people at Alverno willing to be there and to help me with any problems that I have, makes my faith even stronger because I can see these people serving God, and doing his work.
